Rhyderwen Farm is off the A487 between Plwmp and Synod Inn, not far from New Quay with its beaches and in easy reach of the Cambrain Mountains. The Dyfi estuary Nature Reserve is not far. There are plenty of places of interest to visit including the Centre for Alternative Technology at Machynlleth. We will have a folder of local information.

The field is very gently sloping and has a stream along two sides. There is loads of wood and water is nearby (maybe even in the field. Earth lats and fire pits are no problem apart from digging!

Site dues will be about £2 per adult	per night
£1 per non earner	“ “
50p per child	“ “

If you would like to join a catering group please let us know, so we can put those that are interested intouch with each other.

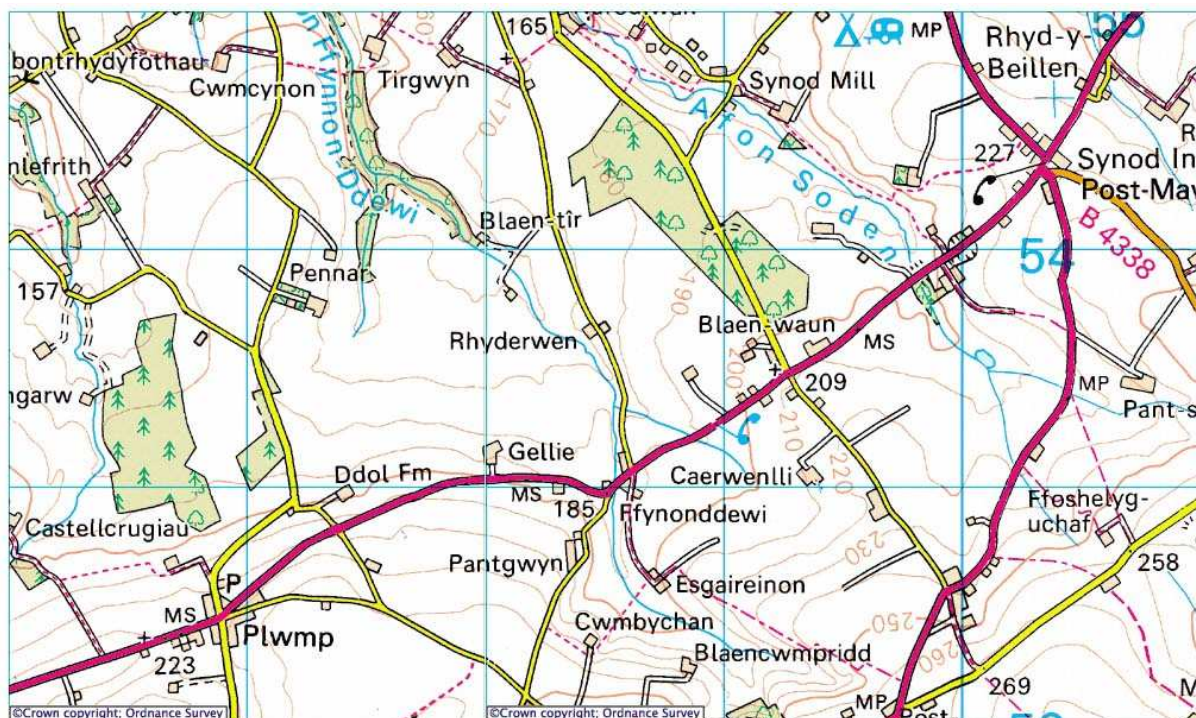

At the beginning of camp a camps council will form and decide a flexible programme. Activities will include beach visits, gadget making, crafts, fire lighting, wide games, local exploration, BBQ and rest and relaxation. Merrimoot will be the middle weekend.

Please bring crafts to share and ideas of games for dry and wet weather.

An overnight hike will be arranged subject to numbers and offer of leaders. Please contact Lucy or Sheena if you are interested to let them know when you will be at camp so you don't miss out.

Things to remember:

- 1) Contact Lucy or Sheena to let them know you are thinking of coming with an idea of arrival date and how many of you.
- 2) Ideas and equipment for activities
- 3) Ideas for merrimoot

The Farm is up a lane to the north of the A487 between Plwmp and Synod Inn.

At the turning for the lane is a stone with the word “Daffodils” on it. The Field is the second (I think) field on the left after the farm.
